

Now, you tell me, he's fair or not. I did not come to them last week but for several weeks. He did not put a hot line complaint against Washington DC, above is exactly what he did, nothing. And if I had evidence crap, all the moron has to do is look in his data base himself. He definitely is covering this scam. I sent him a reply and told him just look, the evidence is right there is front of you. We will see who's laughing tomorrow, when I see the Attorney General of Maryland.

April
Waldorf , Maryland

Submitted: 5/31/2002 8:02:45 AM
Modified: 6/1/2002 2:58:21 AM

Consumer Suggestion

American Chamber of Commerce to Investigate BBB

Great news on the information I've provided above. The AG of MD and the AG of VA are investigating this company and the BBB. I have also been in contact with the American Chamber of Commerce. They are going to launch a full investigation not only to the company I've tried to report but the BBB's and CBBB. I have also notified this situation to the Justice Depts Consumer division, The US Chamber of Commerce, and the FTC. Hopefully now someone is listening.

Amber
Hilliard , Ohio

Submitted: 7/29/2002 8:47:34 AM
Modified: 7/30/2002 4:53:55 AM

Consumer Comment

Where the BBB fell short, The Rip Off Report Came through for me.

Where the BBB fell short, The Rip Off Report Came through for me.

I discovered the Rip Off report about a month ago. My husband and I had recently been approached by Bernard Haldane and Associates to use their services, for a nominal fee of a little over $8,000. Neither he nor I are the kind to hand over that kind of money without any guarantee in a contract. And the contract provided to us by Bernard Haldane would not guarantee anything in return for this fairly large amount of money.

After our meeting with them and the loosely worded contract I started searching various chapters of the BBB for more information. I found a couple of resolved complaints on the company at the different BBB sites, however my search on Google.com led me to the Bernard Haldane Watch website that led me to the Rip Off Report. I was shocked and thankful to read the experiences other consumers had had with BH&A before we had made a financial commitment to them.